Rural Work : Work Rurally

Are you a contemporary artist working in a rural context, wishing to access rural markets, or do you work with artists who live or work rurally? This day-long event is a peer-led exploration of living and working rurally, and the special issues that arise. It is a problem-finding and problem-solving day, based on open discussion and workshopping, and is artist-led. We will explore issues of isolation and how to collaborate with artists in your area in a way that does not undermine the rural isolation you have chosen to enjoy; we will explore possibilities for developing the arts infrastructure in rural areas, and how to work with the new audiences and markets that are moving into villages and market towns. All of this is looked at within the context of the changing rural landscape.
